

AUTUMN SCHOOL on DEEP LEARNING

First Call of the first AERFAI Autumn School that will be hosted by the Technical University of Valencia (Spain), 22-24 October 2014. The topic of this first edition will be Deep Learning. The School will cover both, theoretical and practical issues of Deep Learning methods with lectures along these three days.

Autumn School fees:

- AERFAI Member: Free
- Non-AERFAI Member: 200 euros

These fees include the attendance to all the lectures, coffee breaks and lunches. Since the School has a limited number of attendants the AERFAI Governing Board will select the attendants giving priority to those according to the following criteria:

- AERFAI senior members (or their students)
- Students

SPEAKERS

Hugo Larochelle is Assistant Professor at the Université de Sherbrooke (UdeS). Before joining the Computer Science department of UdeS in 2011, he spent two years in the machine learning group at University of Toronto, as a postdoctoral fellow under the supervision of Geoffrey Hinton. He obtained his Ph.D. at Université de Montréal, under the supervision of Yoshua Bengio. He is the recipient of two Google Faculty Awards, acts as associate editor for the IEEE Transactions on Pattern Analysis and Machine Intelligence (TPAMI) and is a member of the editorial board of the Journal of Artificial Intelligence Research (JAIR).

Aaron Courville obtained his PhD in 2006 from the School of Computer Science at Carnegie Mellon University. In 2012, he joined the Department of Computer Science and Operations Research at the University of Montreal as an Assistant Professor and faculty member of the LISA lab. His research interests focus on deep learning methods and in particular on deep probabilistic methods. He work has been recognized by a Google Faculty Research Award. He was a program chair of the International Conference on Learning Representations (ICLR) for its first session in 2013 and again in 2014
